Dear Sir :

This Media agency (Press, Radio, etc.) was accredited by your office and obtained press accreditation for the Inauguration of President Reagan in 1985.

We like to be accredited again for the Inauguration of President Bush on January 20, 1989 - and related ceremonies.

Would you, please, provide us with such an accreditation.

We publish a magazin, all-kind publications and by Press Releases we are assisting to more, than 50 foreign media in Canada and abroad. Since 1960 we are in close co-operation with USIS - in Ottawa and Toronto.

Your name was given to us by U.S. Consulate in Toronto, and last time U.S. Consul took care and assisted us (Mr. Brown).

Your kindness will be very much appreciated.

Respectfully Yours

Dear Joseph,

Many thanks for your wonderful letter, and for the speech distribution you did after the Convention.

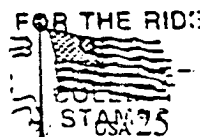

Your clippings have been sent to Boyden Gray's office, and I've asked the campaign press office to send you copies of the foreign affairs remarks we have used recently.

The election is almost here, and we are more determined than ever to win. It is good to know of our many friends in Canada who are cheering us on.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Brousek:

I want to thank you, and all your colleagues in the Canadian media who cosigned your statement, for your kind expression of encouragement on January 3. Your goodwill and your support mean a great deal to me, and I am especially pleased to hear from such a distinguished group of citizens.

The bonds of comity between the United States and its northern neighbor have never been stronger, and as a result we can look to the future of our hemisphere with renewed faith and optimism. Your thoughtful greeting has certainly added to my own spirit of confidence in the future of our two great nations.

Thank you, and God bless you.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, reading "Ronald Reagan". The signature is written in a cursive, flowing style with a large initial "R".

MEMORANDUM TO: DDI

FROM: Director of Central Intelligence

SUBJECT:

1. I called Senator Quayle in anticipation of my trip to be sure he is satisfied with the briefing and arrangements we are making for him. He is quite satisfied. He likes the way the briefers either have the answers or get them for him the next day and I think he is very supportive.

2. I suggested to him that he let us pay special attention to specific areas in which he has known expertise such as defense and arms control to maintain his lead position in those areas. He responded warmly to this and said he would also like to become more expert in Central America in order to help find solutions there. However, he is currently overloaded with reading material. He is concentrating on personnel, organization, and so forth, of his office and does not want now to be burdened with too much reading material of this kind.

3. I suggest that you begin to target the kinds of information I noted, but only allow it to go forward to him very selectively at this time and not discourage him by volume when he is apparently already covered up. Any thoughts on this would be welcome.

William H. Webster
